FP&A Maturity Self Ranking – Tech & Data

What is your maturity? What do you want it to be? What does it need to be?

ACTIVITIES/TOOLS		FOUNDATIONAL	→	EMERGENT	→	LEADING PRACTICES
Technology and Data	Modeling Tool Set	Model is on an island, out of the flow of company data		Standardized planning platforms, widely distributed but Finance controlled		Networked and connected
	Reporting	Manual - time consuming to create		Repeatable – less time creating, more time analyzing		Automated and online – easy to generate accessible for functional managers
	Analytics	Descriptive analytics – what is happening?		Diagnostic analytics – why is it happening?		Predictive and prescriptive analysis – what will happen next?
	Data Management	Siloed, with duplicative data and no definitive “Source of Truth”		Data that creates confidence – shared across systems		Universal data source that addresses multiple, holistic corporate needs

Technology & Data

Why is it so important?

Financial Planning & Analysis (FP&A) is about making investment decisions in a business

- “the art of allocating capital”

Making decisions with data is infinitely better than making decisions with intuition

Technology, when deployed correctly, makes the art of data-based decision making faster and easier

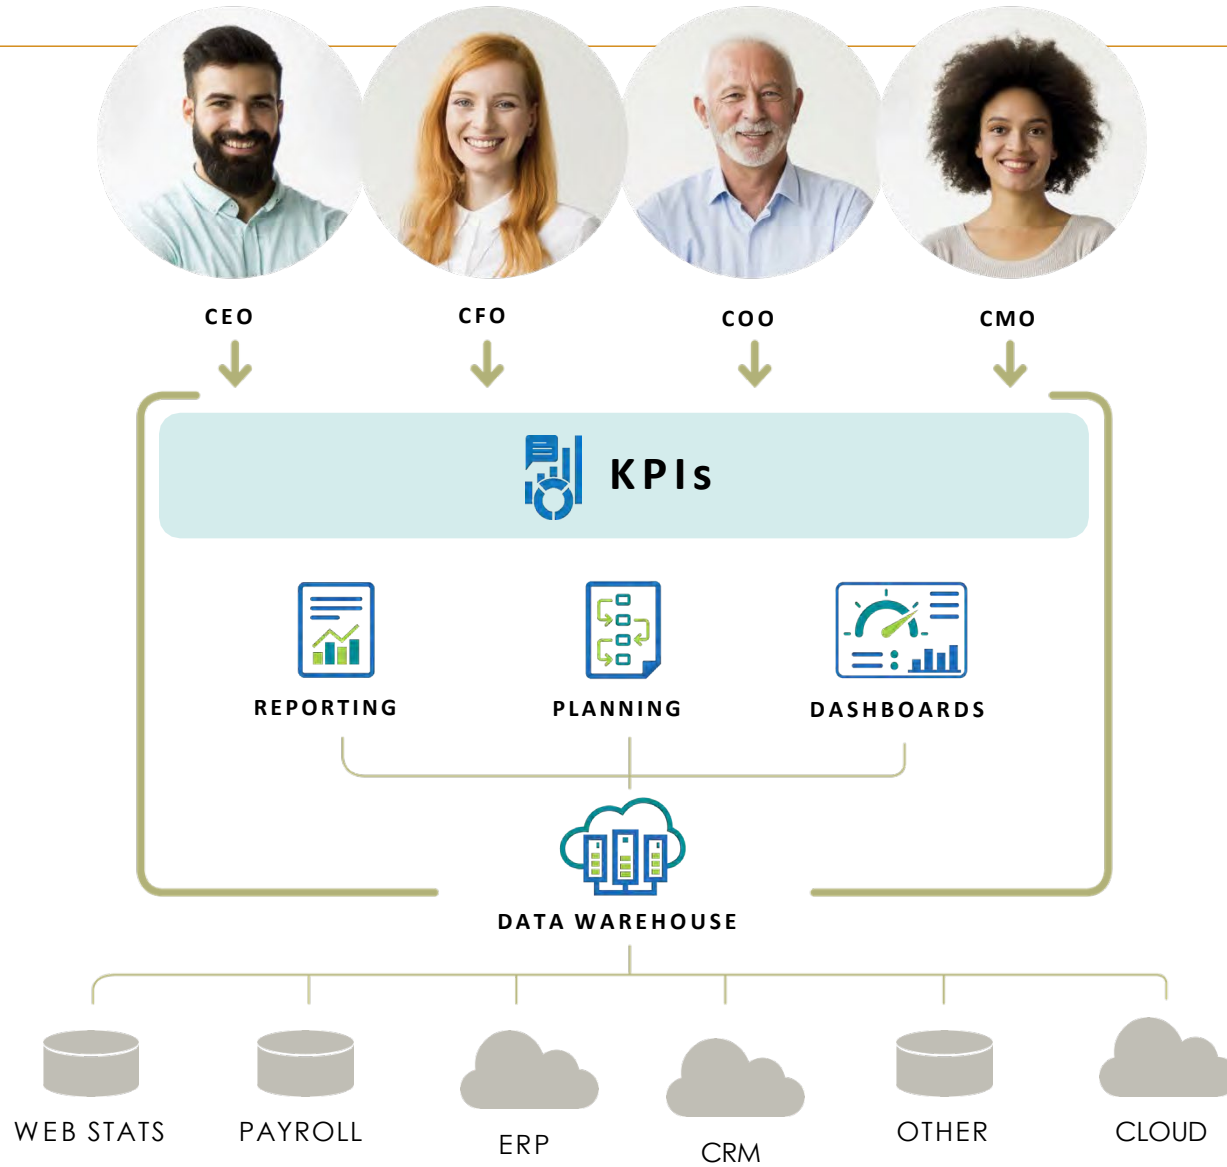

- Customizing the technology (software) is the key to creating value
- Customized scenarios and analysis creates focus
- Asking the right questions is also important – an outside-in perspective can be invaluable

CFOs appreciate more than functionality in FP&A software

- Layout, UI, Structure and Logic
- Ease of deployment, learning and retention
