Federal	Payroll/Employment Tax	Employers	Q:What am I eligible for if I have more than 500 employees? A: Both the Payroll Tax Expense Deferral and the Employee Retention Credit are available to larger employers. Q: Can I do both the Tax Deferral and the Retention Credit? A: Yes, but the rules around administration are complex please work with your payroll and or tax provider around application of 2301 and 2302. Q: What is the Payroll Tax Expense Deferral? A: As of the passage of the CARES Act (March 24th), employers who did not have indebtedness forgiven under the SBA/PPP loan program could elect to defer the employer portion of social security taxes (6.2%) on wages paid to employees. What this means is that the tax is paid later – not now. It puts cash in pockets immediately. The tax accrues and 50% is payable on December 31, 2021 and the remainder on December 31, 2022. Q:What is the Employer Retention Credit? A:The Retention Credit is a tax credit – not a deferral– against the employer portion of social security taxes (6.2%) up to a maximum of $5,000 per employee. This credit is measured quarterly. If the credit applies, taxes are completely waived. Q: Who can apply for the Retention Credit? What are the details? A: -Employers who do not receive a loan under the SBA/PPP loan program. -This is available to all employers, regardless of size and who paid “qualified wages” (as defined below) between March 13 and December 31, 2020 -This credit is available to companies that experience either of the following two situations: (1) Operation of their trade or business is fully or partially suspended during a calendar quarter due to orders from an appropriate governmental authority limiting commerce, travel, or group meetings (for commercial, social, religious, or other purposes) due to the coronavirus disease 2019. OR (2)The business experienced a reduction in gross receipts of 50% or more versus the comparable quarter in the prior year. Once the gross receipts are greater than 80% of the prior year’s comparable quarter the entity is no longer eligible. These numbers are calculated each quarter. -Qualifying for the credit may require a detailed analysis as to whether a business has been impacted by COVID-19. In some cases, it may be clear that a business was subject to closure, such as a single store retail establishment that is forced to close due to a government ordered shutdown. However, for businesses that have multiple locations in different jurisdictions, or that are able to have employees work from home and don’t meet the gross receipts test, it may not be 100% clear as to whether the business operations were partially suspended. Likewise, determining the amount of wages subject to the credit may require special analysis.	By Request	Duration of the COVID-19 emergency	Deferral of employment tax deposits and payments through December 31, 2020	FAQs: Employee Retention Credit under the CARES Act
